James Plummer

Environmental Analyst

James Plummer joined NEIWPCC's Water Resource Protection Division in 2017, and transitioned to his current position with Wastewater and Onsite Systems in 2021.

James coordinates a National State Revolving Fund Workshop and Webinar Series for the EPA. He also provides oversight for NEIWPCC staff working in Maine's Department of Health and Human Services program.

While previously convening NEIWPCC's Nonpoint Source Workgroup, James established NEIWPCC's Tracking and Accounting Collaborative (TACo). While still coordinating TACo, James has shifted his focus from the Nonpoint Source Workgroup to the Stormwater Workgroup.

Prior to joining the NEIWPCC staff full time, James worked for two summers as the coordinator for the NEIWPCC's Youth and the Environment Program in Lowell for which he now provides oversight.

James serves on the New England Water Environment Association's Young Professionals Committee and Watershed Management Committee. Additionally, he is a member of the Association of Clean Water Administrator's 319/Nonpoint Source Workgroup.
