Ian Dulin

Environmental Analyst

Ian assists with various initiatives on the subjects of source water protection, emerging contaminants, water reuse, and Clean Water Act-Safe Drinking Water Act (CWA-SDWA) integration. He serves as project manager for the New York Source Water Assessment and Protection Program, and organizes the Source Water Protection and Emerging Contaminant workgroups. Ian joined NEIW PCC in January of 2023.

Ian most recently has served as a research assistant and a teaching assistant with the Department of Environmental and Earth Sciences at Boston College. In these roles, he collected lake samples, performed laboratory analysis, prepared technical findings through reports and presentations, as well as developed and instructed lab curriculum. Prior to his master's studies, Ian served as a senior operations coordinator with the Appalachian Mountain Club's Center for Outdoor Learning and Leadership, where he managed annual trainings, equipment rental and inventory logistics, developed operating procedures for client activities and DEI initiatives, implemented and monitored program budgets, and oversaw seasonal staff.
